TN, WB set for new governments as Vijay, Adhikari take oath today

TN and WB witness major political shifts as Vijay and Suvendu Adhikari prepare to take oath as CMs.

KOLKATA/CHENNAI

Major political developments unfolded on Friday as government formation talks intensified in Tamil Nadu and West Bengal ahead of the swearing-in ceremonies scheduled for Saturday morning.

In Tamil Nadu, Vijay met Governor R. N. Ravi and formally staked claim to form the government after his party, Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK), emerged as the single largest party in the Assembly elections. TVK secured support from the CPI, CPI(M) and Congress, taking its effective strength close to the majority mark in the 234-member House.

Meanwhile in West Bengal, senior BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari was unanimously elected leader of the BJP legislature party in the presence of Union Home Minister Amit Shah in Kolkata. Adhikari later met Governor C. V. Ananda Bose and staked claim to form the government.

Both Vijay and Adhikari are scheduled to take oath as Chief Ministers at 11 am on May 9. The developments mark historic political transitions in both states, with TVK preparing to form its first government in Tamil Nadu and the BJP set to form its first government in West Bengal.

Bhoi is out and, as Prime Minister Narendra Modi ji has said, bharosa is in. The atmosphere of fear in Bengal has ended and we are entering an era of trust.

—Suvendu Adhikari, WB CM-designate

Historic transitions in two states

Tamil Nadu is set to witness actor-turned-politician Vijay becoming Chief Minister after TVK's impressive electoral debut. In West Bengal, the BJP is poised to form its first government in the state after ending the Trinamool Congress' 15-year rule under Mamata Banerjee.

Total seats:	234
Majority mark:	118
TVK:	108
Congress:	5
CPM:	2
CPI:	2
IUML:	2
VCK:	2

Political activity remained intense throughout the day, with Left parties confirming outside support to TVK while clarifying they would not join the Cabinet. The VCK is also expected to extend support. In another development, TVK reportedly moved the Supreme Court seeking directions to the Governor regarding government formation.

Cooperation Dept must work for farmers' growth: CM

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said no sector can remain outside the cooperative system and stressed that the Cooperation Department must work towards the growth and welfare of farmers.

He was speaking after inaugurating the new administrative office building of the Registrar of Cooperative Societies, named "Sahakara Samruddhi Soudha", in Bengaluru on Friday.

The Chief Minister said he himself had performed the foundation stone ceremony for the building in 2023 and expressed happiness that the construction had been completed within three years at a cost of Rs 19.43 crore.

Recalling the vision of former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Siddaramaiah said Nehru had believed that every village should have a school, a panchayat and a cooperative society for holistic development. He added that the growth of milk cooperatives had now helped realise this vision in many villages.

He said the state was progressing under the cooperative principle of "I for everyone, everyone for me." Around 60 per cent of the population lives in rural areas, and cooperative societies are playing an important role in providing essential services to villagers, he noted.

The Chief Minister highlighted that milk cooperatives had significantly improved the lives of farmers and that Karnataka currently produces nearly one crore litres of milk every day. He stressed that milk production should increase further in North Karnataka and described the dairy sector as a highly profitable supplementary occupation made possible through cooperation.

Siddaramaiah also recalled that during his tenure as Cooperation Minister, milk unions were integrated with dairy networks, which helped boost milk production across the state.

He instructed officials to ensure better public service delivery at Sahakara Samruddhi Soudha.

Deputy Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar, Minister H. K. Patil, MLA Rizwan Arshad, MLC Bilkis Banu and senior Cooperation Department officials were present.

GBA elections in B'luru likely between June 14 and 24: SEC

BENGALURU

Elections to the five corporations under the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) are likely to be conducted between June 14 and 24, State Election Commissioner G. S. Sangreshi said on Friday. He clarified that there would be no delay in holding the polls as the Supreme Court has directed submission of a compliance report by June 30.

Addressing reporters, Sangreshi said the process of finalising the election schedule had formally begun under provisions of the GBA Act. The State Election Commission (SEC) has already communicated with the government and sought the views of the GBA before preparing the poll calendar.

Inputs were also obtained from commissioners of the five corporations, who serve as ex-officio members of the authority. The SEC stated that all major preparations required for conducting the elections had been completed and the Commission was fully prepared for the exercise.

During consultations, GBA officials reportedly highlighted challenges such as the ongoing monsoon season, examinations, census-related work, Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls and shortage of staff, while seeking additional time.

- Proposed poll dates: June 14–24
- Five corporations under GBA to go to polls
- Supreme Court deadline: June 30
- SEC says preparations completed
- Final schedule expected within one week

Challenges cited by GBA officials

During discussions with the State Election Commission, GBA officials pointed to several practical difficulties, including monsoon conditions, ongoing examinations, census activities, revision of electoral rolls and limited staff availability. Officials also expressed concerns about possible disruptions due to weather-related emergencies. Despite these challenges, the SEC reiterated that the election process would proceed within the timeline fixed by the Supreme Court.

Infiltration, cattle smuggling impossible under BJP in WB: HM

KOLKATA

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Friday asserted that infiltration and cattle smuggling would become "impossible" in West Bengal under the new BJP government led by Suvendu Adhikari.

Addressing the BJP legislature party meeting in Kolkata, Shah said the party's massive victory in the Assembly elections reflected the people's desire for stronger national security and democratic governance. He alleged that the previous regime under Mamata Banerjee had witnessed politicisation of administration and criminalisation of politics.

"This victory is not just about organisational expansion or ideology. It is about fixing the biggest hole in the country's national security. Now infiltration and cattle smuggling will become impossible in West Bengal," Shah said.

He formally announced Adhikari as the BJP legislature party leader after newly elected MLAs unanimously backed his name. Shah said eight proposals were received, all supporting Adhikari, with no alternate candidate suggested.

The BJP's victory marks the first time the party will form a government in West Bengal, ending the Trinamool Congress' 15-year rule in the state. Shah thanked the people of Bengal for supporting the BJP despite what he described as an atmosphere of fear and political violence.

He claimed that voters had shown faith in the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the BJP despite repeated incidents of violence during elections.

Shah also assured that under BJP rule, the administration would function impartially and politics would not be criminalised.

SC TO HEAR PLEA OF RAJE GOWDA IN SRINGERI MLA ROW

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday agreed to examine a petition filed by Karnataka Congress leader T D Raje Gowda challenging his unseating as the MLA of Sringeri constituency following a court-ordered vote recount in the 2023 Assembly elections.

Gowda has challenged the April 6 order of the Karnataka High Court that directed reverification and recounting of postal ballots, a move that ultimately led to BJP leader D N Jeevaraj being declared elected as the MLA.

Senior advocate Devadutt Kamat, appearing for Gowda, mentioned the matter before a bench led by Chief Justice of India Surya Kant and sought urgent listing of the case on May 11. The court said it would consider the request for an expedited hearing. In the 2023 Karnataka Assembly election, Raje Gowda had initially won the Sringeri seat by a narrow margin of 201 votes.

CM selection: Cong asks workers to end protests

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

As internal tensions rise within the Congress following the Kerala Assembly elections 2026, senior leader V D Satheesan and the Kerala Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) have urged party workers to stop protests demanding his elevation as Chief Minister.

Supporters of Satheesan had staged demonstrations across several parts of the state, including the capital, since Thursday evening, pressing for him to be named the party's CM choice after the UDF's electoral performance. However, the leadership has stepped in to de-escalate the situation.

Such acts could affect the morale of the party amidst the proud moment of winning 102 seats.

—Satheesan, Congress leader

Satheesan, in a social media post on Friday, appealed to workers to refrain from protests, slogans, and hoardings backing any individual leader, stating that such actions could harm the party's morale at a crucial political moment. The KPCC has also issued a circular warning workers and leaders against public demonstrations or campaign-style activities favouring any chief ministerial candidate.

Tensions within the party deepened further after reports of differences emerging over support for AICC general secretary K C Venugopal, with some workers expressing dissatisfaction over perceived internal lobbying for leadership posts.

IRAN DEFENCE CLAIM

Iran warns US, says missile strength now at '120%'

TEHRAN

Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi on Friday issued a fresh warning to the United States, accusing President Donald Trump of preferring military action over diplomacy amid growing tensions in the Gulf region.

Araghchi claimed Iran's military preparedness had increased despite recent US and Israeli strikes, rejecting American assessments that Tehran's capabilities had been weakened. He said reports suggesting Iran retained only part of its missile strength were inaccurate and insisted the country's military inventory now stood at "120 per cent."

The Iranian minister said Tehran would not surrender to external pressure and alleged that every attempt at diplomacy was being undermined by military escalation. His remarks came as Iran reviews a US-backed proposal involving a temporary halt to nuclear enrichment, sanctions relief and negotiations over the Strait of Hormuz.

Tensions remain high despite a fragile ceasefire, with both sides accusing each other of hostile actions in the Gulf region. The US military recently claimed it intercepted Iranian drones and fast boats near the Strait of Hormuz, while Iran accused American forces of targeting civilian-linked infrastructure and oil transport routes.

Iranians never bow to pressure and diplomacy is always the victim.

—Abbas Araghchi, Iranian Foreign Minister

- Iran rejects US claims of weakened military
- Tehran says missile inventory stands at "120%"
- Tensions continue around Strait of Hormuz
- US and Iran accuse each other of aggression
- Ceasefire remains fragile amid regional conflict

Meanwhile, reports also emerged of missile and drone launches towards US military bases in the Gulf, though several projectiles were intercepted. Authorities in the UAE reportedly confirmed minor injuries in the incidents.

The latest exchange highlights the continuing strain between Washington and Tehran as diplomatic efforts struggle to gain momentum amid repeated military confrontations and rising regional instability.

Mysuru-Based coalition opposes Transgender Rights Amendment Bill

MYSURU

The CSGMR Coalition, led by the Karnataka State Level Community Organizations Alliance and 7 Rhinos Wings for Freedom Community Organization, Mysuru, has strongly condemned the proposed Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Amendment Bill, 2026 introduced by the Central Government in March this year.

Addressing a news conference here on Friday, the representatives of the coalition expressed serious concern that the proposed amendment could severely affect the rights and dignity of transgender and gender-diverse communities across the country. The organizations alleged that the bill attempts to dilute the constitutional guarantees of equality, respect, and self-identity already recognized by the judiciary.

The coalition objected to provisions in the bill that allegedly make medical examinations and certification mandatory for legal recognition of gender identity. According to the organizations, this move directly contradicts the landmark Supreme Court judgment in the NALSA vs Union of India Judgment, which upheld the right of every individual to self-identify their gender without requiring medical or administrative approval. Activists said the amendment bill narrows the definition of "transgender" and excludes several gender-diverse identities and markers. They warned that compulsory certification could lead to human rights violations and increased surveillance and control over transgender individuals.

The coalition further argued that certain provisions of the bill may violate Articles 14, 19, and 21 of the Constitution, which guarantee equality, freedom, and protection of life and personal liberty. The organizations also described the proposed regulatory framework as being similar to the colonial-era Criminal Tribes Act, which they said subjected communities to discrimination and state control.

The coalition urged the Union Government and Parliament to immediately withdraw the amendment bill and preserve the right to self-determination of gender identity. It also demanded meaningful consultation with transgender and gender-diverse communities at every stage of policy-making.

The organizations stressed that all laws concerning transgender persons must align with constitutional principles and international human rights standards.

BSY: The saffron force and symbol of mass leadership

MYSURU

The rise of B. S. Yediyurappa from an ordinary RSS worker to one of Karnataka's tallest political leaders is a remarkable story of struggle, determination, and mass connect.

In a press release here, Srivalli Krishna, a panelist of State BJP Unit has said widely credited with taking the Bharatiya Janata Party deep into rural Karnataka and leading it to power in the state, Yediyurappa became the face of the BJP's growth in the South. If the BJP today stands as a formidable political force in Karnataka, much of the credit goes to his decades-long organisational efforts, relentless struggles, and unwavering leadership.

She said Yediyurappa entered politics as a grassroots worker and gradually earned the trust of people through tireless activism. At a time when many believed it was impossible for the BJP to establish itself in rural Karnataka, he travelled across villages and towns strengthening the party organisation. During an era dominated by the Congress and regional parties, he built BJP brick by brick through public meetings, direct engagement with workers, and by responding to people's issues.

He ensured that the BJP was not confined to urban centres but reached farmers, labourers, youth, and backward communities. Political observers often credit his leadership for the BJP's strong roots in North Karnataka and the Malnad region. Yediyurappa consistently upheld the belief that "party workers are the real strength of the organisation," and his simplicity in warmly greeting even ordinary workers became one of his defining traits.

She said the former CM earned the reputation of being a strong voice for farmers. He consistently raised issues related to farm loans, irrigation, support prices, crop loss, and agrarian distress. Even while in the opposition, he aggressively fought for farmers' causes. As Chief Minister, he prioritised farmer welfare schemes, accelerated irrigation projects, expanded rural development initiatives, and introduced relief measures for agricultural communities.

The BJP's victory in Karnataka in 2008 marked a historic turning point in Indian politics. Yediyurappa became the leader who led the BJP to form its first-ever government in South India. It was not just an electoral victory, but recognition of decades of organisational hard work. His efforts in making the saffron party a dominant force in Karnataka also attracted the attention of the BJP's national leadership. That victory opened a new chapter in the political history of the state.

As Chief Minister, Yediyurappa became known for his swift decision-making and focus on development. He gave priority to infrastructure projects in rural roads, irrigation, drinking water supply, education, and public welfare. Along with Bengaluru's urban growth, he stressed balanced development across districts. His governance reflected the belief that true development must begin in villages.

A Leader Among the People During Crises

Yediyurappa's political journey was filled with challenges — internal party conflicts, criticism from opponents, and even periods when he lost power. Yet, he never lost his fighting spirit. Even during difficult phases, he retained the confidence of party workers and supporters. Believing that the blessings of the people were his greatest strength, he repeatedly returned to the centre stage of Karnataka politics, reflecting the depth of his mass appeal, Srivalli noted.

₹500 Crore Proposal to Solve road and UGD problems in Chamundeshwari Constituency

MYSURU

Promising a major push for infrastructure development in the Chamundeshwari Assembly constituency, MLA G. T. Devegowda said a proposal seeking nearly ₹500 crore from the State Government will be submitted to address long-pending road and underground drainage (UGD) issues in city corporation wards and private layouts coming under the constituency.

Speaking at a public interaction meeting held on Thursday at the Salumarada Thimmakka Park premises in H-Block, Ramakrishnanagar, under Mysuru City Corporation Ward No. 58, the MLA said sincere efforts would be made to secure funds from the government in phases and commence development works at the earliest.

Describing Chamundeshwari as one of the largest and most challenging constituencies in the state, GTD said the constituency has an estimated population of nearly six lakh people and faces unique civic issues not seen elsewhere. More than 1,000 private layouts have come up over the years without proper planning for drinking water supply, roads, drainage systems, and other essential civic amenities.

"Developers created layouts and left without ensuring even basic infrastructure. To provide proper roads, drainage systems and other facilities to these areas, an estimated ₹500 crore will be required," he stated. The MLA said proposals for permanent solutions to underground drainage problems have already been submitted and assured that he would work tirelessly to secure approvals at the earliest. He revealed that a separate ₹27 crore proposal covering five wards, including Ramakrishnanagar, has also been sent to the government, though funds are yet to be released.

Highlighting the hardships faced by residents due to inadequate roads, drinking water shortage, and lack of drainage facilities, GTD said officials have already been instructed to prepare detailed proposals and submit them to the government for phased implementation of infrastructure works across all layouts.

On the drinking water front, he said the old water supply scheme is expected to conclude by the end of the year, paving the way for 24x7 water supply in the area. As part of the project, 32 water tanks are planned, of which 27 have already been completed. At present, 60 MLD water is being supplied from the Kabini River project, and another proposal has been sent seeking an additional 60 MLD supply.

Stressing the need for better coordination among departments, the MLA said officials from Mysuru City Corporation, Public Works Department, CESC and Forest Department must work together to resolve longstanding civic issues. He added that district-level officers, including the Deputy Commissioner, have been invited to directly understand the problems faced by the people.

Referring to pollution concerns, GTD said officials have been instructed to take immediate steps to prevent untreated UGD water from flowing into Lingambudhi Lake.

City Police Commissioner Seema Latkar, Deputy Commissioner G Lakshmikanth Reddy, MCC Commissioner Shaik Tanveer Asif and other senior officials from various departments were present.

YOGA POWERS THE FORCE

SP Baladandi applauds police personnel for discipline and dedication

MYSURU

Stressing that yoga is not merely an exercise but a way of life, Mysuru District Superintendent of Police Mallikarjuna Baladandi lauded police officers and staff for their overwhelming participation in the five-day yoga camp conducted by renowned yoga trainer Dr Bhagirathi exclusively for district police personnel.

Speaking at the valedictory ceremonyhere on Friday, the SP said the department had initially expected a modest response to the camp. However, the enthusiasm shown by the force surpassed all expectations, with nearly 360 police personnel actively taking part throughout the programme.

"Usually many attend yoga camps on the first day and gradually stop coming because of body pain and fatigue. But here, the attendance remained consistent for all five days, which reflects the discipline and commitment of our staff," he said.

Baladandi praised Dr Bhagirathi's tireless dedication, noting that she conducts yoga sessions from early morning till late night in both offline and online formats. He recalled her decade-long association with the police department, during which she has trained thousands of personnel and recently conducted online yoga sessions for prison department staff as well.

The SP also appreciated the release of a special wellness booklet focusing on stress management, meditation, weight control, concentration and mental wellbeing — issues commonly faced in today's fast-paced life.

Describing yoga as the best exercise for holistic fitness, he said every part of the body becomes active through yoga. He particularly highlighted Dr Bhagirathi's unique method of beginning sessions with power yoga to energise and warm up the body before moving to asanas.

He urged all participants to continue practising yoga daily, wake up early and adopt a healthier lifestyle to remain physically fit, mentally strong and duty-ready round the clock.

Fit Forces Build a Strong Nation

Renowned international yoga expert Dr Bhagirathi said her return to India from abroad was driven by a single mission — to spread the power of yoga among people and especially among the nation's uniformed forces.

She recalled that her journey with the police department began in 2016 when she came in contact with the KSRP 12th Battalion. "Around 180 police personnel underwent a rigorous 10-day yogasana training programme and each participant lost between five and eight-and-a-half kilograms during the camp," she said.

Dr Bhagirathi described the initiative as a major challenge that required complete lifestyle changes, including modifications in the canteen diet and continuous motivation for personnel to practise yoga every day without fail.

She fondly remembered the support extended by the KSRP commandant, who provided accommodation and even arranged a separate room for conducting online sessions because of network issues outside the campus. "That warmth and hospitality brought me emotionally closer to the police department," she noted.

Over the years, she has trained police personnel across Karnataka, Jammu and Kashmir, besides conducting yoga sessions for the Indian Army. "I came back to India mainly to work for our soldiers and security forces," she said.

Appreciating the 12th Battalion for publishing a valuable yoga brochure, Dr Bhagirathi said she would never accept payment from the police department. "Keeping our forces healthy and mentally strong is my responsibility. A fit force ensures a peaceful society, state and nation," she added, urging everyone to practise yoga daily for a healthier life.

Handloom is heritage, health and hope

Suttur seer lauds Charaka's cultural mission

MYSURU

Observing that Indian traditions carry both wisdom and scientific relevance, Sri Shivaratri Deshikendra Swamiji of the Suttur Mutt said society must preserve cultural practices after carefully understanding their rational and health-oriented values.

He was speaking after inaugurating the three-day exhibition, sale and buyer-seller meet of naturally dyed pure cotton handloom products organised by the Charaka Women's Multi-Purpose Industrial Cooperative Society of Heggodu-Bheemanakone at the Jagannatha Centre for Art and Culture in Vijayanagar on Friday.

The seer said that in the modern age, health has become extremely important, but preserving cultural and traditional values is equally essential. He praised the Heggodu-based Charaka organisation for working tirelessly for several decades to protect both health and heritage through handloom products and sustainable practices. "Society and governments must encourage such meaningful initiatives," he added.

Speaking on the occasion, Shubha Sanjay Urs said the very word "Charaka" reminds people of Mahatma Gandhi and the freedom movement. "Today, Charaka has emerged as a symbol of sustainability, skill and empowerment, shaping the lives of hundreds of women artisans," she noted.

Health-Friendly Clothing Unveiled

Charaka founder and theatre personality Prasanna, while delivering the introductory address, said the organisation has been experimenting with innovative and eco-friendly textile products. He announced the launch of health-oriented garments, including children's innerwear dyed using turmeric and neem-based natural colours, besides saffron robes specially designed for seers and monks.

Officials from the Handloom and Textiles Department, including Deputy Director B.S. Somashekhar, were present. The programme was presided over by Charaka president Mahalakshmi. Charaka CEO Terence Peter, marketing manager Krishna, Madhura and others attended the event. Padma Shri, head of the design division, compered the programme.

Proposal for rebate

In a major announcement, Joint Director of the Bengaluru South Zone Handloom and Textiles Department B.R. Yogesh assured that a proposal would soon be submitted to the government seeking rebate facilities for Charaka products. He explained that certain existing rules would need amendments for Charaka to avail departmental benefits, and the department would take urgent steps in this direction.

"Let rural cottage industry culture flourish in Badanavalu"

The Suttur seer also stressed that the traditional cottage industry culture of Badanavalu must be preserved. He said the recent government grant released for the region should be utilised strictly for strengthening rural industry and artisan culture. Swamiji revealed that he had already discussed the issue with Minister H.K. Patil and D.R. Patil, Vice-Chairman of the State Decentralisation Planning and Development Committee, and added that a consultation meeting of like-minded individuals would soon be convened to protect and promote the rural industrial ecosystem.

"Core engineering will come back like vengeance"

MYSURU

"Degrees may help students secure their first job, but long-term success depends on inner personality, values, attitude, and core competencies," said A.N. Santhosh Kumar, Vice Chancellor, JSS Science and Technology University.

Speakinf after inaugurating the three-day annual cultural fest 'VIDYUTH 2026' at Vidyavardhaka College of Engineering here on Friday, he said the real purpose of education is not merely to earn money or secure placements, but to refine human behavior, cultivate the right attitude, and build strong character. The society conditions children from a young age to believe that academic scores, placements, and high-paying jobs alone define success. While acknowledging the importance of wealth and economic growth, he questioned whether financial success should be the sole aim of education.

He stressed that education must help students understand society better, develop socially acceptable behavior, and make informed decisions with the right perspective. Warning students against forming instant opinions based on appearances or social media narratives, he urged them to think critically and gather complete information before making judgments.

Highlighting industry expectations, the Vice-Chancellor noted that recruiters today are more concerned about attitude and behavior than technical knowledge. "Companies can train graduates technically within a few months, but changing attitude is much more difficult," he remarked, quoting investor Warren Buffett to emphasize that attitude is more valuable than aptitude.

Speaking on technological advancements, Kumar said emerging fields such as Artificial Intelligence, semiconductors, quantum computing, electric vehicles, nanoscience, and genetic engineering would create enormous opportunities in the coming years.

He dismissed fears that AI would completely replace jobs and asserted that engineers would continue to play a vital role in nation-building.

Predicting a strong revival of traditional engineering streams, he said civil, mechanical, and electrical engineering would "come back with a vengeance" due to rapid infrastructure growth and increasing industrial demands across the country. MNREGA conflict: State government to move Supreme Court against Centre

State Cabinet decides to approach Supreme Court seeking continuation of rural employment guarantee scheme.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has decided to move the Supreme Court over the Centre's delay in issuing a notification regarding the implementation of the proposed VB-G RAM G Act and the uncertainty surrounding the continuation of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act, 2005 (MGNREGA). The decision was taken during the State Cabinet meeting.

Addressing reporters after the meeting, Law Minister H. K. Patil said the Cabinet felt it was necessary in the larger public interest to continue the rural employment guarantee scheme until alternative arrangements are put in place by the Union Government. He said the state would seek permission from the Supreme Court to prepare an action plan for continuing the scheme.

Patil alleged that the Centre had neither issued a notification for the implementation of the new Act nor provided clarity on alternative arrangements. "The Centre's approach amounts to suppressing the constitutional rights of state governments. This is a crucial welfare programme for rural areas and lakhs of poor families depend on it," he said.

He further stated that although the Centre had issued a circular permitting continuation of pending works under MGNREGA, no funds had been released for those projects. The minister also pointed out that the Union Government had advised states to take precautionary measures in anticipation of poor rainfall but had failed to address the livelihood concerns of rural workers. "The Centre has not thought about the poor in this situation. Hence, the state government has decided to knock on the doors of the court," he added.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet also discussed the final report submitted by the State Education Policy Commission chaired by Prof. Sukhdev Thorat. According to Patil, the recommendations were reviewed in detail during the Cabinet meeting, where Prof. Thorat made a presentation on the proposed state education policy.

The Cabinet decided to constitute a Cabinet Subcommittee to examine the commission's recommendations and suggest measures for implementation.

The subcommittee will study the 97 recommendations submitted in the report and recommend which proposals should be accepted by the government. Officials said the Chief Minister would soon announce the composition of the Cabinet Subcommittee.

FINE FOR RULE DIVERSION

KKRTC's dual stance on accident case draws High Court ire,₹25,000 fine imposed

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has strongly criticised the Kalyana Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (KKRTC) for allegedly suppressing facts and presenting contradictory arguments in a road accident compensation case. The court imposed a fine of Rs 25,000 on the corporation for what it termed an abuse of the judicial process.

A division bench comprising Justice Suraj Govindaraj and Justice Dr Chillakuru Sumalatha passed the order while hearing an appeal filed by KKRTC challenging the judgment of the Accident Compensation Tribunal.

The court observed that KKRTC had already admitted negligence on the part of its employees in internal disciplinary proceedings following the accident. The corporation had dismissed the contract driver involved in the accident from service and reduced the annual increment of the concerned manager.

However, while contesting the compensation claim before the High Court, the corporation argued that the deceased victim was responsible for the accident.

Expressing strong displeasure, the bench stated that adopting one stand internally and another before the court amounted to duplicity and misuse of judicial proceedings. "On one hand, the corporation dismisses its employees after admitting fault, and on the other hand, it argues that the deceased was responsible. Such a double standard is illegal and unacceptable," the bench observed.

The judges further remarked that litigants approaching courts are expected to come with clean hands and disclose all relevant facts truthfully. Suppressing information about disciplinary action already taken within the organisation and presenting misleading arguments before the court undermines the sanctity of the judiciary, the bench noted.

The High Court directed KKRTC to deposit Rs 25,000 with the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority. It also ordered that the fine amount be recovered from the officials responsible for filing the appeal and withholding material facts from the court.

In addition, the bench instructed the corporation to mandatorily disclose details of internal disciplinary proceedings in future accident compensation cases. The court further directed KKRTC Managing Director to issue an appropriate circular and constitute a separate review committee to prevent such contradictory positions in future litigation.

The court said the move was necessary to ensure transparency, accountability and fairness in legal proceedings involving public sector transport corporations.

Shivamogga and Vijayanagar to get new Kanteerava Studio units: Mehbub Pasha

SHIVAMOGGA

Kanteerava Studios is planning to set up new units in Shivamogga and Vijayanagar districts with the aim of decentralising film production activities and creating more opportunities for local artists, said Kanteerava Studios Chairman Mehbub Pasha.

Speaking to reporters after holding discussions with Shivamogga Deputy Commissioner N. Hemant regarding land allocation for the project, he said that around 25 acres of land has been sought in Shivamogga for establishing the new studio unit.

He added that a letter has already been issued by the Department of Information and Public Relations Secretary, and the process is currently underway.

The initiative aims to reduce the concentration of film production activities in Bengaluru, where space constraints are increasingly being felt. By expanding facilities to other districts, the government hopes to boost local art, culture and employment opportunities for artists.

The proposed facility will include not only shooting floors but also modern technical infrastructure such as recording and lab development units, enabling end-to-end film production in a single location.

Pasha said the expansion is being planned as part of the diamond jubilee celebrations of the Kanteerava Studios in Bengaluru, which has completed 60 years.

He also informed that he has met Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda regarding the proposal, and the minister has responded positively to the project.

Minister Gundu Rao directs officials on proper fund utilisation

The Minister said MLA meeting will prioritise key areas and accelerate development works using available funds

MANGALURU

Health and Family Welfare and District In-charge Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao has directed officials to hold a meeting soon with district MLAs to decide the proper use of the District Mineral Rehabilitation Fund for development of mining affected areas.

He was speaking while chairing a review meeting at the Deputy Commissioner's office on Friday regarding the utilisation of the fund.

Officials said the fund is being used to improve basic facilities such as roads, schools, and anganwadi buildings in areas affected by mining activities like stone quarrying, sand extraction, and crusher operations.

Since 2015, about forty seven point six two crore rupees has been collected under the fund. A portion of mining royalty, around ten rupees per unit, is also contributed to this rehabilitation account.

The Minister said the upcoming meeting with MLAs will focus on identifying priority areas and speeding up development works using the available funds.

Deputy Commissioner Darshan H V informed that development works are allowed within a five kilometre radius of mining zones and said fifty seven projects have already been completed at a cost of around three crore forty two lakh rupees.

He added that about one crore fifty nine lakh rupees was used for health related facilities during the Covid period.

In a separate discussion on monsoon preparedness, Minister Gundu Rao instructed officials to identify flood prone and landslide sensitive areas and take preventive steps immediately.

He directed departments to revisit areas affected by flooding and landslides last year and strengthen safety measures before heavy rains begin.

Officials said cleaning of storm water drains and major canals is being carried out on priority to avoid water logging during the monsoon.

Eight coastal erosion prone locations have been identified and precautionary measures are being taken.

Control rooms have been set up at district and taluk levels for emergency response and will function round the clock.

Disaster response teams including SDRF are already active in the district while National Disaster Response Force deployment is expected by the end of May.

Authorities said identification of ninety two flood prone areas and eighty eight landslide sensitive zones is in progress and public alerts are being issued regularly.

Officials assured that coordinated efforts between departments are being strengthened to reduce monsoon related risks and protect lives and property across Mangaluru region this season effectively and in a timely manner for public safety.

Ajay Singh calls for long term regional development planning

KALABURAGI

Dr. Singh said development must prioritise human capital alongside infrastructure, noting ₹23,704 crore under Article 371J with ₹17,000 crore already allocated for projects

Kalyan Karnataka Region Development Board Chairman and MLA Dr. Ajay Singh has called for long term visionary planning to ensure balanced and sustainable development in the region over the next five years.

He was speaking at a workshop on "Kalyan Karnataka Development Vision 2026 to 2031" held in Kalaburagi on Friday through video conference.

Dr. Singh said that development should not focus only on infrastructure and investment but must also prioritise building human capital in education, health, social welfare and economic sectors.

He noted that since the implementation of Article 371J, the region has received around twenty three thousand seven hundred four crore rupees in funds, with more than seventeen thousand crore already allocated for various development works.

He said major progress has been made in agriculture, irrigation, education, health, roads and infrastructure across the region through these investments.

However, he pointed out that despite spending large amounts of money, per capita income growth in the region remains low compared to other parts of Karnataka.

He said Bengaluru city district has a per capita income of over nine lakh rupees while Kalaburagi district stands at only around one lakh sixty nine thousand rupees, showing a wide development gap.

Dr. Singh said issues such as regional inequality, malnutrition, weak education and health systems and low human development index continue to challenge the region.

He stressed the need for collecting accurate ground level data and preparing new action plans with innovative ideas to address these problems.

Economist Prof. Govinda Rao also spoke at the event and said that despite Karnataka being a fast growing state, North Karnataka and Kalyan Karnataka continue to lag behind in development.

He added that economic growth cannot be achieved through financial investment alone and effective use of human and natural resources is essential.

Officials said a committee report has suggested an allocation of around forty three thousand nine hundred fourteen crore rupees for development works in the next five years.

KKRDB officials also shared progress reports stating that out of over forty five thousand approved works, more than thirty six thousand have already been completed across different districts.

The workshop was attended by regional officials, district administrators and experts who discussed strategies to improve education, health, employment and infrastructure development in the region through coordinated long term planning and stronger implementation mechanisms for sustainable growth and equality across all districts in Kalyan Karnataka.

Girija said complaints remain uninvestigated, action targets complainants, citizens face repeated office visits, and corruption is ignored

Dalit Sangharsh Committee alleges misuse of recovery notices

YADGIR

The Dalit Sangharsh Committee has alleged that recovery notices issued to complainants are being used as a tool to suppress their struggle and silence protest voices. The allegation was made by state women coordinator Girija during a press conference held at the district press house in Yadgir.

She claimed that Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officers have issued recovery notices to people who had earlier filed complaints under the Right to Information Act and later withdrew them. According to her, this is being done deliberately to target leaders of pro-Dalit organisations and weaken their movement.

Girija said it is unfortunate that thousands of complaints remain pending without proper investigation, while action is being taken against complainants instead. She alleged that citizens are getting tired of visiting government offices repeatedly, while corruption issues are being ignored.

She warned that the organisation will initiate legal action after consulting state-level leaders if the situation continues.

Another member, Lakshmana R. Halisagara, also spoke at the press meet and said he has been working as a kitchen assistant in the Social Welfare Department for eight years without receiving salary. He said repeated requests to authorities have not brought any response.

He further alleged that some complainants were forced to withdraw cases due to pressure, threats and influence from powerful individuals and officials. He said he later refiled his complaint seeking a proper investigation.

He also expressed anger that his name was mentioned in a press release without prior notice, calling it a violation of dignity and human rights.

Other committee members including Rayappa Salimani and Chandrasekhara Natekar were present at the press conference.

MANGALURU FACES PERSISTENT ILLEGAL WASTE DUMPING PROBLEM

Mangaluru

Even as Mangaluru City Corporation spends crores of rupees annually on waste management and door-to-door garbage collection, illegal dumping of waste along roadsides, empty plots, markets and drainage areas continues to remain a major civic concern.

Though sanitation workers regularly clear garbage heaps from black spot areas, waste reappears at the same locations within days, exposing gaps in public awareness and enforcement measures.

Officials said the corporation has implemented systematic waste collection, segregation of dry and wet waste, awareness drives and penalties for violations. However, garbage dumping by residents, roadside eateries and some commercial establishments continues unabated.

Several roads across the city including Kadri-Nanthoor Road, Bhojaraj Lane, Mathadakani Road, Central Market Road, Bandar Road and areas near Kottara and the District Panchayat office have emerged as major dumping spots.Plastic bags filled with liquor bottles, food packets, footwear, clothes and other household waste are commonly seen dumped along roadsides.

Sanitation workers say another major challenge is that wet and dry waste are mixed together, making segregation difficult during collection and disposal.Residents have also alleged that some students, labourers and employees staying in rented houses and apartments from outside districts and states dump waste irresponsibly on roadsides. The growing garbage heaps are causing foul smell, mosquito breeding and stray dog menace in several areas. In some places, waste is being burnt openly, leading to air pollution concerns.Civic activists have demanded stricter monitoring, beautification of cleaned areas, heavy penalties against offenders and continuous awareness campaigns at the ward level to tackle the issue permanently.

Housing project for poor families in Surathkal hits financial roadblock

SURATHKAL

The construction of a massive G+3 residential housing complex in Ward No. 6 of the Mangaluru North Assembly constituency has slowed down due to a severe financial crunch, raising concerns among hundreds of families awaiting homes under the project.

The project, which aims to provide nearly 600 houses for poor and homeless families, was launched as a major urban housing initiative. Though around 65 percent of the work has already been completed, lack of funds has stalled further progress.

Officials said the total estimated cost of the project is around Rs 40 crore, out of which nearly Rs 25 crore worth of work has been completed so far. Authorities estimate that an additional Rs 10 to 15 crore is required to complete the remaining construction.

Since projects exceeding Rs 5 crore require government approval, the Mangaluru City Corporation is expected to place a proposal before its next general body meeting and seek additional funding from the government.

The housing complex is being developed with facilities similar to private apartment complexes, including electricity, drinking water supply, drainage systems, roads and streetlights.

Each house will have an area of 300 square feet and is estimated to cost nearly Rs 5 lakh. Every block will contain 16 houses.

The project is being implemented jointly by the Centre, the Karnataka government and the Mangaluru City Corporation. Beneficiaries are being selected through a lottery system from nearly 6,000 applicants.

However, delays in funding have cast uncertainty over completion of the project, which was originally expected to be finished by 2023.

RURAL GROWTH PROGRAM

Cleanliness campaign held around thirty three institutions

BENGALURU

As part of efforts to improve cleanliness standards and achieve a better ranking in Swachh Survekshan 2025-26, the Bengaluru Central City Corporation conducted a special cleanliness drive around 33 schools and colleges within its limits.

Additional Commissioner (Development) Daljit Kumar said the campaign was carried out under the corporation's action plan and was part of its 11th phase of cleanliness activities. He said the focus of the drive was to maintain hygienic surroundings near educational institutions and create awareness among students and the public about avoiding littering.

Officials said maintaining clean surroundings around schools and colleges is essential for the health and well-being of students. Awareness programmes were also conducted to encourage people to keep public spaces clean and avoid waste dumping near campuses.

A total of 273 sanitation workers, including 198 pourakarmikas and 75 other staff members, participated in the drive. They worked together to clean the surroundings of the selected educational institutions and remove accumulated waste.

During the operation, around 34.7 quintals of waste were collected and disposed of safely by the sanitation teams. Officials said the drive helped improve hygiene conditions in the selected areas and strengthened the ongoing cleanliness efforts in the city.

Corporation officials including DGM Bhimesh Nayak and other administrative staff were present and supervised the campaign activities.

The corporation said similar cleanliness drives will continue in other parts of the city in the coming days as part of its broader goal to achieve a cleaner and healthier urban environment under Swachh Survekshan guidelines.

KALABURAGI

Bank employees in Kalaburagi held a silent protest at Jagat Circle on Friday to raise their demands ahead of a nationwide strike scheduled for May 25 and 26 called by their federation.

Employees said they are facing long pending issues including recruitment shortages delay in promotions and workload pressure. They demanded immediate recruitment of messengers and armed guards along with filling vacant posts in banks.

They also urged implementation of ICT transfer benefits for employees recruited since 2019. Another key demand was to stop outsourcing of permanent posts and ensure job security for staff. Workers also sought resolution of pay equity issues and improvements in salary structure. They requested an option for National Pension System employees to shift to pension fund management.

Better staffing levels and improved medical reimbursement facilities were also demanded by the union. Union leaders said repeated appeals to management have not received proper response so far. Due to this they said the nationwide strike has become unavoidable.

Ind -NZ Free Trade Agreement Seen as Major Boost to Global Trade Stability

The recently concluded Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between India and New Zealand is being viewed internationally as a landmark step toward strengthening economic cooperation between the two democracies.

NEW DELHI

According to reports, the India-New Zealand FTA represents a major advancement in restoring balance to global trade following the tariff disputes triggered by U.S. President Donald Trump during his trade war policies.

Trade relations between India and New Zealand have steadily expanded over the last several years, and the newly signed agreement is expected to accelerate that growth significantly. Bilateral trade between the two nations increased from approximately $900 million during 2019-20 to nearly $1.3 billion in 2024-25. India's exports to New Zealand recorded particularly strong growth, rising from $379 million to $711 million during the same period. Imports from New Zealand also increased, moving from $522 million to $587 million.

Although the overall scale of trade between the two countries remains relatively modest compared to larger global trading partnerships, analysts believe the structure and scope of the new agreement provide strong potential for sustained and long-term expansion. The agreement reflects growing economic interdependence and highlights areas where both countries can benefit through increased cooperation and exchange.

The historic agreement, eliminates tariffs on 100 percent of India's exports to New Zealand. In return, tariffs on 95 percent of New Zealand's exports to India will either be sharply reduced or completely removed. Experts say this will improve market access for businesses in both countries and encourage higher levels of investment and trade activity.

One of the most notable features of the agreement is New Zealand's commitment to invest $20 billion in India over the next 15 years. The investment pledge has drawn comparisons to the $100 billion investment commitment offered by the European Free Trade Association in its own trade pact with India.

The FTA also places strong emphasis on mobility opportunities for students and skilled professionals. For the first time, New Zealand has signed a dedicated annex on student mobility and post-study work visas with another country.

Under the arrangement, Indian students studying in New Zealand will be allowed to work up to 20 hours per week during their studies and will also benefit from extended post-study work visa opportunities.

Canadian Envoy Holds Key Talks with Naveen Patnaik and Odisha Deputy CM

BHUBANESWAR

During a courtesy visit to Naveen Patnaik's residence in Bhubaneswar, the Canadian delegation discussed a wide range of issues related to Odisha's economic growth and development. Patnaik, who is also president of the Biju Janata Dal, reportedly exchanged views with the delegation on how Canada could contribute to Odisha's expanding industrial and economic landscape.

The discussions mainly centered on strengthening trade relations, attracting foreign investment, and exploring long-term cooperation between Canadian businesses and Odisha's emerging sectors. Officials indicated that both sides recognized the growing importance of Odisha in India's industrial and energy future.

Earlier the Canadian High Commissioner and his wife met Deputy Chief Minister Kanak Vardhan Singh Deo at Lok Seva Bhawan. The meeting covered several strategic areas including agri-export, technological collaboration, bilateral trade, clean energy, and industrial development.

According to an official statement, Singh Deo highlighted Odisha's dominant position in India's mineral sector. He noted that the state holds nearly 92 percent of the country's chromite reserves and also possesses substantial rare earth mineral deposits along its coastline. These natural resources have made Odisha an attractive destination for global investment, particularly in mining and value-added manufacturing industries.

The Canadian delegation reportedly expressed strong interest in Odisha's automobile sector and other industrial investment opportunities. Discussions also focused on leveraging technology partnerships to promote sustainable industrial growth and innovation-driven development.

The High Commissioner of Canada to India, Christopher Cooter, held important discussions with senior leaders in Odisha during his visit to the state on Friday.

During the interaction, Singh Deo briefed the Canadian delegation on Odisha's historical background, cultural heritage, and agricultural economy. He emphasized the state government's commitment to balancing traditional values with modern economic progress. The Deputy Chief Minister stated that Odisha welcomes international partnerships that can bring advanced technology, foreign investment, and wider market access while ensuring sustainable and inclusive development.

Odisha's improving business environment was also highlighted during the discussions.

The state has been classified under the Achiever category in the World Bank's Ease of Doing Business rankings, reflecting improvements in policy stability, infrastructure development, and investor-friendly governance.

A major point of interest during the talks was Odisha's emerging leadership in renewable energy. Out of the three Green Hydrogen Hubs planned across India, two are set to be established in Odisha at Paradip and Gopalpur.

DMK Seeks Separate Seating in Lok Sabha after Split with Cong

CHENNAI

DMK Parliamentary Party leader Kanimozhi Karunanidhi has written to Om Birla seeking an independent seating block for DMK MPs in the Lok Sabha. In her communication, Kanimozhi stated that the political relationship between the DMK and Congress had undergone a significant change following the collapse of the alliance, making the current shared seating arrangement no longer appropriate.

She urged the Lok Sabha Speaker to make the necessary arrangements to allocate separate seating for the DMK Parliamentary Party so that its members could function independently and carry out their parliamentary duties effectively.

The request comes in the wake of major political developments in Tamil Nadu after the recently concluded Assembly elections. The Congress had contested the polls as part of the DMK-led alliance, but political equations changed dramatically after the election results produced a fractured mandate in the state.

Following the elections, the Congress extended support to actor-politician C. Joseph Vijay and his party, Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam, a move that reportedly angered the DMK leadership.

Senior DMK leaders reacted strongly to the Congress decision, accusing the national party of political betrayal at a critical moment. During meetings involving newly elected DMK legislators and party officials, the leadership openly criticised Congress for shifting its support and altering the political landscape after the elections.

Political observers view the request for separate seating in Parliament as more than a procedural matter. It is being seen as a symbolic indication of the widening distance between the two parties and a formal acknowledgment that their alliance has effectively ended.

The DMK and Congress had worked closely together for several years in both Tamil Nadu and at the national level, often presenting a united front against the Bharatiya Janata Party and its allies. The latest developments, however, suggest a significant reshaping of opposition politics in Tamil Nadu and potentially at the national level as well.

Human Activity Affecting Tiger Breeding in India's Reserves

HYDERABAD

Tourism and human activity are pushing India's tigers towards stress and affecting their breeding, reveals a new study at the CSIR-Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology (CCMB).The study, published in the Zoological Society of London journal Animal Conservation, is the first to combine non-invasive stress and reproductive hormone analyses from tigers across five major Indian tiger reserves: Corbett (Uttarakhand), Tadoba–Andhari (Maharashtra), Kanha and Bandhavgarh (Madhya Pradesh), and Periyar (Kerala).The study highlights issues for each of these tiger reserves to inform better tiger management, the CSIR-CCMB said in a release on Friday.

Many previous studies by Dr G. Umapathy at the CSIR-CCMB had established that tourism and other anthropogenic activities in tiger reserves cause stress in tigers. This time, he led the team to systematically assess how human activities affect tiger breeding.

Delhi High Court Defers Hearing on CBI Plea Against Discharge of Kejriwal

Delhi HC on Friday adjourned the hearing on a petition filed by the CBI challenging the discharge of Aam Aadmi Party leaders Arvind Kejriwal, Manish Sisodia and others in the alleged Delhi excise policy corruption case.

NEW DELHI

A single-judge bench of Justice Swarana Kanta Sharma deferred the matter to May 11, observing that certain senior advocates had yet to communicate their consent to appear as amici curiae for former Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, former Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia and AAP leader Durgesh Pathak.

The court had earlier indicated that it intended to appoint three senior advocates to assist in the proceedings after the leaders decided not to take part in the hearing. Justice Sharma had noted earlier this week that the respondents were neither appearing personally nor represented through legal counsel, making the appointment of amici curiae necessary before hearing arguments advanced by the CBI.During Friday's hearing, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the CBI, informed the court that replies had already been filed to applications submitted by other accused persons in the matter. He further stated that the question regarding the maintainability of the revision petition would be addressed during his arguments before the court.

The decision of the AAP leaders to abstain from the proceedings came after Justice Sharma declined to recuse herself from hearing the case. In a letter addressed to the court, Kejriwal stated that his hope of getting justice from the present bench had been shattered. Referring to the principle of Satyagraha, he said he would not participate in the proceedings while reserving the right to challenge any adverse order before the Supreme Court.Manish Sisodia also adopted a similar stand, stating that his absence from the proceedings was based on personal conviction and should not be interpreted as disrespect toward the judiciary.The controversy stems from the now-scrapped excise policy introduced by the then AAP-led Delhi government. The CBI has alleged that the policy was manipulated to favour select liquor traders in exchange for kickbacks. However, in a detailed judgment delivered on February 27, the trial court discharged all accused persons in the case.

Rajasthan CM Approves Science Stream for Jajod School After Girls Raise Demand

JAIPUR

The issue was raised by students of the Government Senior Secondary School in Jajod during an interaction with the Chief Minister at a 'Ratri Chaupal' programme held in Sikar district. The girls informed Sharma that their school did not offer Science subjects, making it difficult for them to continue their studies in streams of their choice after secondary education.According to the students, the absence of a Science stream compelled many girls either to select subjects that did not match their interests or travel to distant schools to pursue Science education. This posed significant challenges, especially for students from rural backgrounds. Moved by their concerns, Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma immediately assured the students that the state government would introduce the Science stream at the school. He directed officials from the Education Department to take the necessary steps without delay and ensure that the process was completed as quickly as possible.The very next morning, while the students were on their way to school, they met the Chief Minister again and repeated their request. NEW DELHI

Speaking at the event organised by the School of International Studies at Jawaharlal Nehru University, of which he is an alumnus, Sandhu said Delhi's future development must balance environmental protection, social inclusion and economic progress. He stressed that governance should remain responsive, accessible and humane to meet the needs of citizens effectively.

Focusing on sustainability, the Lieutenant Governor identified air pollution, restoration of the Yamuna River, rejuvenation of water bodies, efficient waste management, sustainable transport systems and expansion of green cover as critical priorities for the city. According to him, electric mobility, pedestrian-friendly roads, cycling infrastructure and integrated urban planning would play a defining role in the next phase of Delhi's transformation.Speaking about inclusive growth, Sandhu said development should benefit every section of society equally. He emphasised that Delhi's future must belong to women, senior citizens, youth, differently-abled individuals, migrant workers, entrepreneurs, students, artists and vulnerable communities alike.

The Lieutenant Governor noted that urban development cannot be restricted to physical infrastructure alone. He stressed the need to strengthen social infrastructure, including healthcare, education, public safety, accessibility and dignity for all citizens.

Highlighting the role of technology in governance, Sandhu said innovation and administration must work together to create transparent and citizen-friendly systems. He stated that the ultimate objective should be governance that remains efficient while also being humane and easily accessible to the public.Sandhu also spoke extensively about Delhi's cultural identity, describing the city as one of the world's richest cultural centres. He said Delhi's monuments, literature, music, crafts, food traditions, languages, museums and festivals collectively represent the soul of the capital.

Delhi Lieutenant Governor Vinai Kumar Saxena on Friday emphasised sustainability, inclusion, culture, innovation and economic growth as the five major pillars that will shape the future of the national capital.

ISWAP Militants Attack Nigerian Army Base in Borno

Suspected fighters of the Islamic State West Africa Province (ISWAP) launched a deadly assault on a Nigerian military base in Borno state, leaving at least two soldiers dead and several others injured, including the commanding officer.

MAIDUGURI

According to security sources and military officials, the attackers stormed the army base under the cover of poor visibility during the early morning hours. The incident marks another major escalation in the long-running conflict between Nigerian security forces and armed extremist groups operating in the northeast region of the country.

A military source stated that the militants heavily attacked the Forward Operating Base in Magumeri, resulting in intense gunfire and destruction within the camp. Initially, reports from local security personnel indicated that three soldiers were killed during the confrontation, while the commanding officer suffered severe injuries. Around 14 additional soldiers were also wounded in the attack.The source further explained that Nigerian troops managed to repel the assault after fierce fighting. During the counter-offensive, soldiers reportedly killed about eight militants and recovered a significant cache of weapons and equipment. The recovered items included approximately 20 motorcycles, several machine guns, and rocket-propelled grenades believed to have been used by the attackers.

A member of the civilian joint task force, a local vigilante group that assists the military in anti-insurgency operations, confirmed seeing the aftermath of the attack. He said parts of the military base were damaged by fire and several soldiers had sustained gunshot wounds. The vigilante member also claimed that around 10 Boko Haram or ISWAP fighters were killed during the exchange of fire.

In an official statement, the Nigerian military said troops from Operation Hadin Kai, the country's counterinsurgency operation in the northeast, successfully contained the attack and prevented the militants from fully infiltrating the base. Military spokesperson Lieutenant Colonel Sani Uba confirmed that two soldiers lost their lives during the battle, while injured personnel, including an officer, were receiving medical treatment and were reported to be in stable condition.The military added that although temporary structures and some equipment were destroyed by fire, troops recovered anti-aircraft guns, AK-47 rifles, and ammunition abandoned by the fleeing militants.

Meloni meets Rubio as Iran war strains Italy-US ties

ROME

Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni met U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio on Friday at a moment of unusual strain between her government and President Donald Trump's administration, driven largely by the war with Iran. Rubio is in Italy for a two-day trip aimed at easing ties with Pope Leo after unprecedented attacks on the pontiff by Trump, while also addressing Washington's frustration over Italy's refusal to support the U.S.-Israeli war on Iran. Meloni had been one of Trump's firmest supporters in Europe, cultivating close ties with him and presenting herself as a natural bridge between Washington and other EU states that □had no natural political affinity with the Republican U.S. leader.

Botswana's former president Festus Mogae dies at 86

GABORONE

Botswana's former president Festus Mogae, who led the diamond-rich nation for a decade and won praise for good governance and the fight against HIV/AIDS, has died at the age of 86, the government said, declaring three days of national mourning. Mogae served as Botswana's third president from 1998 to 2008, handing power to his vice president, Ian Khama in a smooth transition that highlighted the southern African nation's reputation for political stability. An economist by training, Mogae was credited with successful management of Botswana's economy. He tackled HIV/AIDS openly at a time when Botswana faced one of the world's highest infection rates, and adopted one of the African continent's most comprehensive programmes against it. Born in Serowe on August 21, 1939, Mogae studied in Britain before joining Botswana's civil.

Putin is ready to talk with EU but won't make the first move, Kremlin says

MOSCOW

Russian President Vladimir Putin is ready to negotiate with everyone, including the Europeans, the Kremlin said on Friday after the media reported that European Union leaders were preparing for potential talks.The FT reported that the shift by the EU was prompted by European frustration with negotiations to end the Ukraine war that have been led by U.S. President Donald Trump.

European Council President Antonio Costa said he believed there was potential for the EU to negotiate with Putin and that the bloc had the backing of Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy to do so, the FT said.

Starmer Vows to Continue After Labour Suffers Major Local Election Setback

LONDON

British Prime Minister Keir Starmer pledged to remain in office and continue pursuing political reform after his Labour Party suffered significant losses in local elections across England. The results have intensified concerns over his leadership less than two years after Labour's sweeping national election victory in 2024. The local election results dealt a serious blow to Labour, particularly in traditional strongholds across central and northern England. Voters appeared to punish the government amid growing frustration over economic pressures and the pace of promised reforms. The outcome has also highlighted a broader shift in British politics, with support increasingly moving away from the country's long-dominant Labour and Conservative parties.The biggest gains came for Nigel Farage and his populist party, Reform UK. The party secured more than 400 council seats across England, marking one of its strongest performances to date. Reform UK's rise has strengthened its position as a growing political force and could make it the main opposition party in Scotland and Wales against nationalist parties such as the Scottish National Party and Plaid Cymru.The election also reflected the continued fragmentation of Britain's political landscape. In addition to Reform UK's gains, the left-wing Green Party also attracted support from dissatisfied voters, while nationalist parties gained momentum in devolved regions. Both Labour and the Conservative Party lost significant voter share, underlining growing dissatisfaction with the traditional two-party system.Despite the disappointing outcome, senior Labour figures publicly backed Starmer's leadership. The prime minister addressed reporters in west London, where Labour managed to retain control of the Ealing council, one of the few bright spots for the party during the elections.Starmer acknowledged the scale of the setback and accepted responsibility for the losses. He admitted that his government had made what he described as unnecessary mistakes since taking office, particularly by focusing heavily on the country's challenges without offering enough optimism to voters.However, the prime minister argued that the election results reflected public impatience over the speed of progress rather than outright rejection of his government. He promised to intensify efforts to deliver reforms and improve living standards for British citizens.Starmer also signaled a renewed focus on addressing the ongoing cost-of-living crisis, which has been worsened by international conflicts, including wars involving Ukraine and Iran. He indicated that his government would prioritize economic stability and household relief measures in the coming months. Financial markets reacted positively to Starmer's commitment to economic reforms.

US-Iran Naval Clash Raises Fears Despite Ongoing Ceasefire

WASHINGTON

The latest escalation unfolded as Washington awaited Tehran's response to a proposed framework aimed at ending the war that began on February 28. The conflict erupted after the United States and Israel launched coordinated airstrikes on Iran, triggering weeks of military exchanges across the Gulf region.President Donald Trump stated that three U.S. Navy destroyers came under attack while passing through the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most strategically important waterways. The narrow passage handles nearly one-fifth of global oil and liquefied natural gas shipments, making any instability in the area a major concern for international markets and energy security.

In a post on Truth Social, Trump claimed the American warships completed their transit successfully despite the attack. He said no damage was sustained by the destroyers, while Iranian forces allegedly suffered heavy losses during the encounter.Later, speaking to reporters in Washington, Trump sought to minimize the severity of the clash and maintained that the ceasefire agreement remained in place. He described the incident as a failed provocation by Iran and insisted that U.S. forces responded decisively.

Tensions between the United States and Iran escalated again after naval forces exchanged fire near the Strait of Hormuz and the United Arab Emirates reported renewed missile and drone threats.

Iran, however, accused the United States of violating the ceasefire first. Iran's top joint military command alleged that American forces targeted an Iranian oil tanker and another vessel while also carrying out airstrikes on civilian areas near Qeshm Island and coastal regions close to the Strait of Hormuz.According to Iranian military officials, Iranian naval units retaliated by launching attacks on U.S. military vessels east of the strait and near the port city of Chabahar. A spokesperson for Iran's Khatam al-Anbiya Central Headquarters claimed the strikes caused significant damage to American forces, though U.S. Central Command denied that any ships or military assets were hit.

Iranian state media later suggested the situation had calmed. Press TV reported that after several hours of military exchanges, normal conditions had returned to Iranian islands and coastal cities around the Strait of Hormuz.

The conflict also spread beyond the waterway. The United Arab Emirates confirmed that its air defense systems intercepted missile and drone threats believed to have originated from Iran early Friday morning. Authorities did not release detailed information regarding the scale or damage of the attacks. Since the outbreak of war, Iran has repeatedly targeted Gulf nations hosting American military bases, raising fears that the broader Middle East could face a prolonged period of instability and conflict.

UK's Princess Kate to visit pioneering Italian schools funded by WW2 scrap metal

ROME

On her trip to northern Italy next week, Britain's Princess of Wales will see how in the years after World War Two communities transformed abandoned military equipment, including a tank, into a globally influential model of early years education.

The visit will take Kate to Reggio Emilia, where local residents many of them women helped finance some of Italy's first nursery schools after the war by selling the scrap metal from equipment left behind by retreating German forces.Those early efforts laid the foundations of the educational Reggio Emilia approach, now influential worldwide and aligned with Kate's focus on children's social and emotional wellbeing.

The wife of heir to the throne Prince William and mother of three launched the Royal Foundation Centre for Early Childhood in 2021 to bring together experts and research in the field.

The trip, running from May 13 to May 14, will be Kate's first official overseas visit since completing cancer treatment.Some time ago, British representatives visited our city and our early childhood education services, and shortly afterwards we heard of the Princess's interest in coming to see us, Marwa Mahmoud, Reggio Emilia's councillor for education, told Reuters.

Health authorities have identified a new suspected case of hantavirus on the remote South Atlantic island of Tristan da Cunha, raising further concerns over an outbreak linked to a luxury cruise ship.

New Suspected Hantavirus Case Reported on Remote South Atlantic Island

AMSTERDAM

The suspected new infection was reported on Friday in a British national living on Tristan da Cunha, widely regarded as the world's most remote inhabited island. The isolated British overseas territory, located in the South Atlantic Ocean, has a population of only around 200 residents and became a focus of global health concern after the luxury cruise ship MV Hondius stopped there on April 15.

The outbreak aboard the vessel has already claimed three lives. A Dutch couple and a German national died after being infected with the virus. Health authorities across several countries are now monitoring passengers, crew members, and individuals who may have had contact with those infected. According to officials, four other confirmed patients are currently receiving treatment in hospitals located in the Netherlands, South Africa, and Switzerland. The infected individuals include two British nationals, one Dutch national, and one Swiss citizen.One of the victims, a Dutch woman, died shortly after leaving the ship on April 24. She was identified as the wife of the outbreak's so-called patient zero, a Dutch man who died aboard the cruise ship on April 11. The couple's deaths have intensified concerns about how widely the virus may have spread during the voyage.The World Health Organization said it planned to release updated figures regarding both suspected and confirmed infections later on Friday. International health agencies are continuing efforts to track passengers who disembarked from the ship and to identify anyone who may have been exposed during travel or medical transfers.Dutch health authorities reported that two individuals who had close contact with the Dutch woman before she was removed from a flight in Johannesburg on April 25 tested negative for the virus. The woman had reportedly become critically ill during the flight, forcing authorities to take emergency action.One of the people tested was a flight attendant who later developed symptoms and was admitted to a hospital in Amsterdam as a precautionary measure.

RUSSIA UKRAINE CEASEFIRE

Russia and Ukraine Trade Accusations over Ceasefire Violations

MOSCOW

Russia and Ukraine accused each other on Friday of violating a temporary ceasefire announced by Russian President Vladimir Putin for Victory Day celebrations marking the Soviet Union's defeat of Nazi Germany in World War Two.

The latest exchange of accusations came amid heightened tensions surrounding Russia's annual Victory Day celebrations on May 8 and 9, one of the country's most significant national events. President Vladimir Putin had declared a unilateral two-day ceasefire intended to coincide with commemorations of the Soviet Union's victory over Nazi Germany in 1945.

However, Ukraine rejected the limited ceasefire proposal, arguing that a temporary halt only for the holiday was insufficient. Kyiv instead called for a broader and indefinite truce beginning two days earlier, a proposal that Moscow did not accept.Russia's Defence Ministry claimed Ukrainian forces violated the ceasefire repeatedly during the night and early Friday morning. According to the ministry, Russian air defenses intercepted and destroyed 264 Ukrainian drones across several regions. Moscow Mayor Sergei Sobyanin said the Russian capital was among the areas targeted, while officials also reported drone attacks in the Perm region near the Ural Mountains.Russian authorities further accused Ukraine of launching artillery and drone attacks against Russian military positions and civilian infrastructure in the border regions of Belgorod and Kursk. The ministry stated that Ukrainian forces continued military operations despite the announced pause in fighting. Moscow has also issued strong warnings ahead of Saturday's Victory Day military parade in Red Square. Russian officials said any Ukrainian attempt to disrupt the event would trigger a major missile strike on Kyiv.

RONALDO and Felix lead Al-Nassr to vital win

Cristiano Ronaldo and Joao Felix powered Al-Nassr toward the title with a 4-2 victory, moving five points clear.

TAIF

Cristiano Ronaldo and Joao Felix put on a masterclass as Al-Nassr defeated Al-Shabab 4-2, moving within touching distance of the Saudi Pro League title. Joao Felix was the standout performer, netting a brilliant hat-trick, while Ronaldo also scored to reach a historic milestone of 100 goals in Saudi league football.

The match began with a blitz from Al-Nassr, as Felix scored twice in the first ten minutes. Al-Shabab fought back with a goal from Yannick Carrasco, but Ronaldo restored the two-goal cushion in the 75th minute with a clinical finish. Although Al-Shabab scored again late through Ali Albulayhi, Felix sealed the win with a 90th-minute penalty to complete his treble.

With this victory, Al-Nassr sits comfortably at the top of the standings with 82 points, five ahead of rivals Al-Hilal. They are now just one win away from clinching the championship. The decisive moment could come on May 12, when they face Al-Hilal in a high-stakes Riyadh derby at Al-Awwal Park.

"This was a huge step, but the job isn't finished," said Al-Nassr coach Jorge Jesus.

He emphasized that the team must remain focused for the upcoming derby, where "small details" will decide the title. Beyond the league, Al-Nassr is also eyeing international glory, as they prepare to face Gamba Osaka in the Asian Champions League Two final on May 16. For Ronaldo and his teammates, a historic double is now firmly within their grasp.

Valverde to miss El Clasico following training bust-up

MADRID

Real Madrid midfielder Federico Valverde has been ruled out of the highly anticipated El Clasico against Barcelona after a shocking training ground altercation with teammate Aurelien Tchouameni.

The club confirmed that the Uruguayan star suffered a "cranioencephalic trauma" during the incident, which occurred just days before their crucial league clash.

The tension reportedly boiled over during the practice session, marking the second time the two players clashed in as many days. Valverde was rushed to the hospital to treat a cut on his forehead and undergo neurological scans.

While he has since been released and is recovering at home, medical protocols require him to rest for 10 to 14 days, officially sidelining him for the May 11 showdown at the Bernabéu.

Real Madrid has taken a firm stance on the infighting, launching formal disciplinary proceedings against both Valverde and Tchouameni. "The club will announce the resolutions of both cases in due course," a spokesperson stated, emphasizing that internal conduct standards were breached. Fortunately, Tchouameni escaped the scuffle without any reported injuries.

This loss is a massive blow to manager Carlo Ancelotti's plans. Real Madrid currently sits in second place with 77 points, trailing a dominant Barcelona side by 11 points.

Without Valverde's energy and defensive work rate in the middle of the pitch, the task of closing that gap has become significantly harder.

NHL player salaries reach record new highs

NEW YORK

Professional hockey is seeing a massive financial boom as the NHL and its Players Association announced the salary cap will jump to a record $104 million for the 2026-27 season. This significant increase of $8.5 million from last year reflects the league's rapid growth and surging popularity among fans worldwide.

The new financial rules mean teams have more money than ever to spend on top-tier talent. To show how far the league has come, the minimum a team must spend is actually higher than the maximum limit was just eight years ago. This wealth is driven by record-breaking viewership during the Stanley Cup playoffs and lucrative television deals with major networks. League revenue is expected to top $7 billion this season. Commissioner Gary Bettman credited the success to the sheer quality of the game, noting that fans are tuning in even when teams from the biggest cities aren't playing. While some teams, like the Vegas Golden Knights, have used special injury rules to navigate budget limits, others like the Chicago Blackhawks are comfortably meeting the new requirements while building younger rosters. Individual players are also set to win big, with the maximum possible salary rising to $20.8 million. Experts predict this trend won't stop anytime soon, early estimates suggest the cap could leap even higher to $113.5 million the following year. For players and fans alike, the future of the NHL looks brighter, and much wealthier, than ever before.

Fast-bowling sensation Nahid Rana, Oman's veteran leader Jatinder Singh, and newcomer Ajay Kumar are all in the running following a month of record-breaking displays.

Bangladesh's 23-year-old speedster, Nahid Rana, earned his spot after a dominant "Player of the Series" performance against New Zealand. Rana spearheaded his team's 2-1 series victory, claiming eight wickets with an impressive economy rate. His career-best haul of 5/32 in Mirpur was the deciding factor in securing a crucial win for the hosts.

Oman captain Jatinder Singh made history in April during the Cricket World Cup League 2. Singh amassed 266 runs at a blistering strike rate, highlighted by a massive 139 runs against Nepal. This knock officially stands as the highest individual ODI score ever recorded by an Oman batter. His leadership and consistent run-scoring have kept Oman as a serious contender on the global stage.

Joining them is UAE's left-arm seamer Ajay Kumar, who enjoyed a fairytale start to his international career.

In his first two ODIs, Kumar took nine wickets, including a remarkable 6/35 against Oman. His ability to swing the ball and maintain a tight economy has quickly made him one of the most talked-about emerging talents in Associate cricket.

Indian Archer Simranjeet Kaur reaches World Cup semifinals

SHANGHAI

Indian archer Simranjeet Kaur touched hearts after securing a spot in the women's recurve semifinals at the Archery World Cup Stage 2. The 27-year-old athlete delivered a flawless performance at the Yuanshen Sports Centre, proving that persistence eventually pays off on the global stage.

In a dominant quarter-final display, Simranjeet swept aside her opponent, Fong You Jhu from Chinese Taipei, with a perfect 6-0 score. Her shooting was remarkably consistent, hitting high marks that left her rival with no room to recover. This victory marks a major breakthrough for the archer, who is competing in her first-ever World Cup final stage.

The moment of victory was deeply personal. Overcome with joy, Simranjeet was seen wiping away tears before immediately calling her father to share the news. "I cried because this is a big deal for me and it was long-awaited," she said. She explained that her strategy was simply to "detach" from the pressure and focus only on the arrow.

It was an unexpected turn of events, as Simranjeet had initially ranked lowest among the four Indian women during the qualifying rounds. While teammates like Deepika Kumari and Ankita Bhakat were eliminated in earlier stages, Simranjeet remained steady. Although she won't participate in the team gold medal match due to her seeding, she now has a chance at individual glory. Meanwhile, India's men's campaign ended after Dhiraj Bommadevara lost his fourth-round match to France.

Satwik clarifies comments on quiet Thomas Cup return

NEW DELHI

Indian badminton star and Khel Ratna winner Satwiksairaj Rankireddy has addressed the controversy surrounding his recent social media posts, explaining that his frustration stems from a lack of sports culture rather than a desire for money. After the Indian team secured a bronze medal at the 2026 Thomas Cup in Denmark, Satwik noted the "disheartening silence" that met the team upon their arrival home.

The star shuttler had sparked a debate by posting "before and after" photos showing the team's quiet departure and equally quiet return. Clarifying his stance, Satwik insisted his message was misinterpreted by those who thought he was seeking personal fame or financial rewards.

He emphasized that the issue is about making sure athletes feel their hard work for the country is recognized by the general public.

"It is not about wanting grand parades," Satwik stated in a heartfelt post. "We just want to know that our country is watching and that our efforts are seen." He argued that when major milestones are ignored, it sends a negative signal to future generations of Indian athletes who are working hard to bring glory to the nation.

His partner, Chirag Shetty, shared similar feelings, noting that while true badminton fans understood the magnitude of a Thomas Cup podium finish, the general public remained unaware.

The duo, currently ranked third in the world, called for a culture that celebrates every athlete who wears the Indian jersey, regardless of the sport, to ensure that no victory goes unnoticed.

Sri Lanka's Imesha Dulani also earned her spot after a stellar tour of Bangladesh. Named Player of the Series in the ODIs, she provided consistent starts and followed up with a sharp 55 in the T20I leg. Her contributions were vital in securing series victories for the visitors, proving her status as a rising star in Asian cricket.

The most historic entry comes from Brazil's Laura Cardosa. During a phenomenal run in April, Cardosa became the first player in T20I history to take nine wickets in a single match, finishing with unbelievable figures of 9 for 4 against Lesotho.

In addition to her 17 wickets during the month, she also scored over 200 runs. This nomination highlights the growing talent in emerging cricket nations as fans prepare to vote for their winner.

New Delhi

Cloudflare has announced plans to cut more than 1,100 jobs worldwide as part of a major restructuring driven by the rapid adoption of artificial intelligence across its operations. The company said internal use of AI has surged by over 600% in recent months, with tools increasingly handling tasks in engineering, finance, HR, and marketing. It described the move as a shift toward an "agentic AI era" rather than a cost-cutting exercise. Cloudflare stated that affected employees will receive severance packages including continued pay through 2026, healthcare support in the US, and extended equity benefits. The restructuring will be completed in a single phase as the company reshapes its workforce to stay competitive in AI-driven technology markets.

Tata Trust board meetings deferred to May 16

The meetings were earlier scheduled for May 8 and were expected to review board representation and nominee directors. However, they were postponed shortly before commencement, marking the second rescheduling. A meeting held in Gurugram reportedly lasted over three hours and focused on financial performance, cost rationalisation, and operational challenges linked to higher fuel prices and West Asia airspace disruptions. The airline is also evaluating temporary unpaid leave and expense reductions amid rising costs. Large office deals dominate India's real estate market

Large office transactions dominated India's commercial real estate market in Q1 2026, driving strong sector activity overall

NEW DELHI

India's commercial real estate sector saw strong momentum in Q1 2026, with large office transactions accounting for about 65% of total market activity, according to a report by Knight Frank.

The trend highlights continued dominance of big-ticket office leasing and investment deals, even as broader real estate segments show mixed performance. Overall office market activity remained strong, supported by sustained demand from global capability centres (GCCs), technology firms, and multinational corporations.

The report notes that India's office market has been setting new records in recent quarters, with leasing volumes reaching historic highs despite global economic uncertainty. A major share of demand has come from large occupiers preferring Grade-A office spaces with modern infrastructure and better efficiency features. Institutional investors and large corporates have increasingly focused on consolidated, long-term leases, contributing to the rising share of large transactions. This shift has also been supported by expansion plans of GCCs, which continue to drive bulk office space absorption across major cities.

According to recent market data, India's office leasing activity reached record levels in Q1 2026, reflecting strong underlying demand despite volatility in global markets.

Analysts say the trend toward large transactions indicates growing maturity in the sector, with occupiers prioritising scale, efficiency, and high-quality workspace infrastructure over fragmented leasing.

- Large office deals dominate market
- GCCs drive strong office demand
- Institutional investors prefer big leases
- Grade-A offices see rising demand
- Commercial real estate shows resilience

However, the broader real estate market continues to show divergence, with residential sales in some cities cooling due to pricing pressures, even as commercial office demand remains resilient. Overall, the report suggests that India's commercial real estate market is increasingly being driven by large-scale, institutional-grade deals, reinforcing its position as one of the most active office markets globally.

India pushes MSME cooperation under BRICS 2026

NEW DELHI

India-targets-boost-msme-cooperation-brics-chairship-2026-finance-inclusion-fintech-trade-growth-sme-working-group-msme-forum-inclusive-development

As Chair of the BRICS in 2026, India is focusing on strengthening cooperation among micro, small and medium enterprises under the BRICS Partnership on the New Industrial Revolution (PartNIR). The initiative aims to boost trade, innovation, and inclusive economic growth across member nations.

The Ministry of MSME has been tasked with organising three SME working group meetings along with the inaugural BRICS MSME Forum during India's chairship period. These platforms are intended to enhance policy coordination and share best practices among member countries.

The first SME Working Group Meeting was held online on April 24, 2026, with a special focus on "Access to Finance for MSMEs." Discussions centred on bridging the credit gap through financial inclusion, improving financial literacy, and strengthening credit readiness among small businesses.

Another key theme was the role of fintech in expanding SME access to credit and enabling smoother cross-border trade payments. Representatives from BRICS countries shared experiences on overcoming financing challenges faced by MSMEs and explored innovative solutions.

Participants highlighted that MSMEs remain a major driver of employment, innovation, and economic development, but continue to face difficulties in accessing timely and adequate credit.

- India leads BRICS MSME cooperation
- Focus on finance access MSMEs
- Fintech expands SME credit systems
- BRICS shares MSME growth strategies
- MSMEs drive inclusive economic growth

The meeting emphasised the need for stronger financial ecosystems and institutional support.

The discussions also reinforced the importance of cooperation among BRICS economies to build resilient and globally competitive MSME sectors. Policy exchange and collaborative frameworks were identified as key tools for future growth.

India has also signed agreements with countries such as Japan, South Africa, and New Zealand to enhance MSME collaboration, aiming to improve trade and investment opportunities.

The MSME sector remains a crucial pillar of India's manufacturing and industrial base, and the government is actively promoting its expansion as part of its broader inclusive growth strategy.

Indian construction equipment exports surge despite domestic slowdown driven by infrastructure delays and higher operational costs

CONSTRUCTION EQUIPMENT EXPORTS RISE AMID DOMESTIC SLOWDOWN

NEW DELHI

India's construction equipment industry recorded strong export growth of 31.5% in FY26, even as domestic demand softened, according to a report by the Indian Construction Equipment Manufacturers' Association (ICEMA). The sector showed resilience despite challenges such as slower infrastructure execution and project delays.

India continues to be the world's third-largest construction equipment market, with the industry valued at about $10 billion in FY25. It is projected to reach $14.76 billion by 2030, growing at a compound annual growth rate of 8.3%. Total equipment sales declined by around 2% during FY26 to 1,36,995 units. Domestic demand, excluding non-OEM exports, fell by nearly 7% across major equipment categories, reflecting weaker project execution on the ground.

ICEMA officials said the decline does not indicate structural weakness but is linked to execution delays rather than reduced long-term demand. They noted that government capital expenditure remains strong, but issues such as land acquisition delays, slower project awards, and funding bottlenecks affected momentum.

Liquidity pressures were also visible due to delayed contractor payments, which impacted cash flow across infrastructure projects. Additionally, the implementation of CEV Stage V emission norms increased equipment costs, while global commodity inflation—especially in crude oil and bitumen—added further pressure.

Despite domestic slowdown, export performance remained strong, highlighting growing global competitiveness of Indian-made construction equipment. Industry leaders said this reflects the sector's improving manufacturing capabilities and international acceptance.

The association expressed confidence in long-term growth, driven by continued investment in roads, railways, mining, urban infrastructure, housing, and rural development.

Industry representatives, including ICEMA President Deepak Shetty and Vice President Shalabh Chaturvedi, emphasized that faster project execution, improved liquidity support, and timely policy implementation will be key to restoring stronger domestic demand. Overall, the sector remains optimistic that sustained infrastructure focus will support stable growth in the coming years.

India leads global space shift: Nidhi Khare

NEW DELHI

India is emerging as a key player in global space innovation and standardisation, said Nidhi Khare while addressing an international space systems meeting in New Delhi on Friday. She said the country is now at the forefront of global space transformation and rapidly becoming a hub for innovation and private sector participation in the space industry.

Khare was speaking at the opening plenary of the 35th ISO TC 20/SC 14 meeting on "Space Systems and Operations," hosted by the Bureau of Indian Standards. She highlighted that international cooperation is essential for building strong global standards for the growing space ecosystem.

She noted that major policy reforms and the creation of the Indian National Space Promotion and Authorization Centre (IN-SPACe) have played a crucial role in opening up India's space sector. These changes, she said, have enabled startups and established industries to participate more actively in space-related activities.

According to Khare, global standards developed through shared expertise will ensure that space operations remain safe, sustainable, and inclusive as the industry expands worldwide. She also emphasized that India hosting such a high-level international meeting reflects its growing importance in the global space economy.

- India leads global space transformation
- IN-SPACe boosts private sector growth
- International standards ensure space safety
- BIS aligns Indian global standards
- Reforms expand startup space opportunities

The event brought together delegates from several countries, including representatives of national standards bodies, space agencies, industry experts, and academic institutions. Officials from the Bureau of Indian Standards said efforts are underway to align Indian standards with international frameworks to improve quality, safety, and competitiveness in the sector.

IN-SPACe Chairman Pawan Goenka also highlighted that India's space ecosystem is witnessing rapid transformation driven by reforms and private participation. He stressed that strong global standards will support innovation and help integrate India more deeply into the global space economy.

SBI Q4 PROFIT RISES; FY26 CROSSES ₹80,000 CRORE

MUMBAI

State Bank of India reported a mixed but largely steady financial performance for the fourth quarter of FY26, showing resilience in core banking operations despite pressure on margins and operating profit. The bank posted a 5.6% year-on-year rise in standalone net profit at ₹19,683.75 crore, compared to ₹18,642.59 crore in the same quarter last year.

On a consolidated basis, the bank recorded a modest 1.1% YoY increase in net profit at ₹20,161.30 crore. However, sequentially, profit declined 6.4% from the previous quarter, reflecting some slowdown in quarterly performance.

For the full financial year FY26, SBI achieved a significant milestone with net profit crossing ₹80,000 crore, reaching ₹80,032.01 crore, up nearly 13% from ₹70,900.63 crore in FY25. This growth was supported by stable credit demand and deposit expansion across its domestic operations. Net interest income (NII) rose 4.13% YoY to ₹44,380 crore, although it saw a slight sequential dip. The bank's domestic net interest margin (NIM) moderated to 2.93%, reflecting a year-on-year decline amid changing rate conditions and competitive lending pressures.

Operationally, SBI faced some weakness as operating profit fell 11.45% YoY and 15.7% quarter-on-quarter to ₹27,704 crore. Despite this, the bank continued to show improvement in asset quality.

Gross non-performing assets (NPAs) declined to ₹73,452 crore, with the gross NPA ratio improving to 1.49% from 1.82% a year earlier. Net NPAs also improved to 0.39%, indicating stronger recovery and write-off trends.

DRDO tests TARA glide weapon successfully

NEW DELHI

India has successfully conducted the maiden flight-trial of the Tactical Advanced Range Augmentation (TARA) weapon system off the coast of Odisha, marking a significant step in indigenous defence technology development, the government said on Friday.

The system has been developed by the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) in collaboration with the Indian Air Force and industry partners. Defence Minister Rajnath Singh congratulated all teams involved, calling the achievement an important milestone in strengthening India's self-reliant defence capability.

TARA is a modular range augmentation kit designed to convert unguided warheads into precision-guided weapons. It enables existing munitions to strike targets with improved accuracy and extended range, making it a cost-effective enhancement to current air-delivered weapon systems.

The system has been developed by the Research Centre Imarat (RCI) along with other DRDO laboratories. It is described as India's first indigenous glide weapon system of its kind, using low-cost technology to enhance battlefield effectiveness against ground-based targets. Officials said the project has also involved Development-cum-Production Partners and Indian industries, many of which have already begun production activities, reflecting the growing role of the domestic defence manufacturing ecosystem.

INDICES SLIP GLOBALLY

Markets slide as strait of Hormuz fears rise

MUMBAI

The Indian stock market closed sharply lower on Friday, with benchmark indices falling due to renewed geopolitical concerns linked to tensions near the Strait of Hormuz.

BSE SENSEX dropped 516 points, while the NIFTY 50 slipped around 150 points, reflecting broad-based selling pressure across sectors.

The decline was driven by rising investor anxiety after fresh military tensions emerged in the Middle East region near the Hormuz Strait, a critical global oil shipping route. Market sentiment weakened further as concerns grew over possible disruptions in crude oil supply and global trade stability.

According to market updates, both indices extended losses from previous sessions as geopolitical risk factors overshadowed domestic economic cues. Despite the overall downturn, some segments like small-cap stocks reportedly showed relative resilience.

Foreign institutional investor (FII) selling and a weaker rupee added additional pressure on Indian equities, further dampening investor confidence during the trading session.

The volatility comes amid ongoing sensitivity of global markets to developments in West Asia, especially as oil prices remain highly reactive to tensions in the region.

Overall, the session reflected risk-off sentiment, with investors shifting toward safer assets as uncertainty around the Strait of Hormuz situation intensified.

Iyer tipped to take reins from Suryakumar

The BCCI reportedly plans to replace Suryakumar Yadav with Shreyas Iyer as India's T20I captain for the 2028 cycle.

NEW DELHI

In a move that has sent shockwaves through the cricketing world, the BCCI is reportedly set to replace Suryakumar Yadav with Shreyas Iyer as India's T20I captain. Despite leading India to a historic T20 World Cup title just last month, "SKY" is expected to be relieved of his duties following a prolonged slump with the bat and persistent fitness concerns. Reports suggest that the selection committee has "run out of patience" with Suryakumar's individual returns. Since taking over the leadership in July 2024, the 35-year-old has managed only 932 runs in 45 matches, a sharp decline from the world-class standards he previously set. Compounding the issue is a lingering wrist injury that has required heavy taping for nearly 18 months, leading to rumors that he may even miss Mumbai Indians' upcoming clash against Bengaluru.

In contrast, Shreyas Iyer has emerged as the frontrunner for the role after a stellar IPL 2026 campaign. Leading the Punjab Kings to six wins in their first seven games while amassing over 300 runs, Iyer is seen as a younger, more stable option for the future. The BCCI is reportedly aiming for a single white-ball captain for both ODIs and T20Is to create continuity ahead of the 2028 Los Angeles Olympics.

An official announcement is expected within a fortnight of the IPL final, as selectors finalize squads for the upcoming tours of Ireland and England. While Suryakumar's tactical success is undeniable, the board's eye on the 2028 cycle looks set to usher in a new era of leadership.

Finn Allen's Maiden IPL Ton Fires KKR to Fourth Straight Win

NEW DELHI

Kolkata Knight Riders continued their impressive run in the Indian Premier League as Finn Allen smashed a sensational unbeaten century to guide his side to an emphatic eight-wicket win over Delhi Capitals on Friday. Chasing a modest target of 143, KKR reached the finish line with remarkable ease, sealing victory with 34 balls to spare and registering their fourth consecutive win of the season.

Allen, who struggled to find rhythm early in his innings, transformed the chase with a breathtaking display of power-hitting. The New Zealand batter crawled to 18 off his first 20 deliveries before shifting gears dramatically. Once settled, Allen launched a brutal assault on the Delhi bowlers, hammering 10 towering sixes and five boundaries on his way to an unbeaten 100 off just 47 balls.

The knock marked Allen's maiden IPL century and the fourth T20 hundred of his career. His explosive innings ensured KKR never lost control of the chase after a steady start. Delhi Capitals, despite posting 142, failed to contain Allen's late blitz as their bowling attack unraveled under pressure. The dominant victory further strengthened KKR's momentum in the tournament.

Charlie Dean ready to lead England women

LONDON

England spinner Charlie Dean has called it a "massive honour" to lead her country as the team prepares for the upcoming ICC Women's T20 World Cup. Dean has been handed the captaincy for the ODI series against New Zealand, stepping in while regular skipper Nat Sciver-Brunt rests as a precaution.

With England hosting the T20 World Cup at home for the first time since 2009, Dean feels she is hitting her peak at exactly the right moment. She expressed high levels of confidence, stating that she is in the best mental and physical space of her career to guide the squad. While she admitted that missing a player of Sciver-Brunt's caliber is a challenge, she emphasized that player health is the top priority.

"It would seem silly to push it too early," Dean remarked, supporting the decision to keep the regular captain fresh for the global tournament. She believes this temporary leadership role will help her bring more "assuredness" to her own performance on the big stage.

England faces a tough road ahead, placed in Group 2 alongside heavyweights like the West Indies and defending champions New Zealand. The home favorites will kick off their World Cup campaign against Sri Lanka at Edgbaston on June 12.

Pujara backs young star for WC glory

LUCKNOW

Indian cricket legend Cheteshwar Pujara believes a new star is rising on the horizon. Following a brilliant performance in the IPL, Pujara claimed that young fast bowler Prince Yadav is fast-tracking his way toward a spot in the Indian World Cup squad.

The praise comes after Prince led the Lucknow Super Giants (LSG) to a thrilling nine-run victory against Bengaluru.

In a high-pressure, rain-shortened match, Prince showed nerves of steel.

He finished with impressive figures of 3-33, taking the massive wicket of Virat Kohli with what experts called a "divine delivery."

This ball hit the seam perfectly, leaving one of the world's best batters stunned. Prince also dismissed dangerous hitters Devdutt Padikkal and Jitesh Sharma, effectively breaking the back of the run chase while defending a target of 213.

Pujara noted that Prince has shown incredible growth over the last two seasons, proving he can handle the heat of the "death overs."

He emphasized that Prince possesses the rare combination of raw talent and a calm temperament.

"That World Cup dream he talks about will not be far from reality," Pujara remarked, urging the youngster to keep following his process.

Former New Zealand bowler Mitchell McClenaghan also joined the chorus of fans, praising the pacer's extra speed and tactical execution.

With the backing of cricket greats and a knack for taking big wickets, Prince Yadav is quickly becoming the name on every selector's lips as the national team looks toward its future.

Ashwin recalls mentors and early days with CSK

NEW DELHI

Indian spin legend Ravichandran Ashwin has taken a sentimental trip down memory lane, creditng late mentor VB Chandrasekhar for launching his iconic career. In a heartfelt interview, Ashwin revealed how a dominant performance in Chennai's local league paved the way for his journey with the Chennai Super Kings (CSK). During the early days of T20 cricket, many believed finger spinners were obsolete. However, after Ashwin took six wickets in a local final, he caught the eye of selectors. Despite CSK already having Muttiah Muralitharan, Chandrasekhar saw Ashwin's potential. "He told me I could go far because of my attitude," Ashwin recalled, noting that Chandrasekhar gave him his first professional contract.

Ashwin became a cornerstone of CSK's early dominance, helping them win back-to-back titles in 2010 and 2011. He praised the franchise's "heroic" domestic players like Murali Vijay and Shadab Jakati, who often flew under the radar. He also credited CSK's off-field management for creating a stress-free environment, handling everything from travel to family logistics so players could focus solely on cricket.

After traveling through various teams like Delhi Capitals and Rajasthan Royals, Ashwin returned to CSK in 2025 for a final homecoming.

Marsh smashes fastest century to sink Bengaluru

NEW DELHI

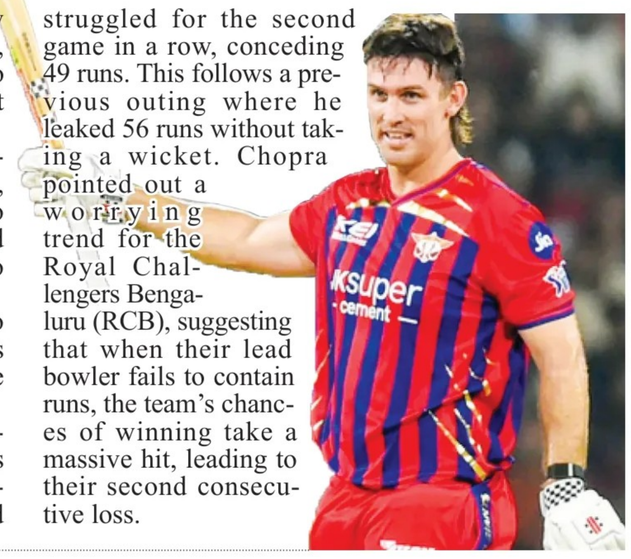
Cricket expert Aakash Chopra has hailed Mitchell Marsh's explosive batting after the opener smashed a record-breaking century to lead Lucknow Super Giants (LSG) to a tense nine-run victory. In a rain-hit match reduced to 19 overs, Marsh turned the game into a personal highlight reel, scoring 111 runs off just 56 deliveries.

His incredible innings included nine fours and nine towering sixes, reaching his hundred in only 49 balls. This feat officially stands as the fastest century ever recorded by an LSG player in IPL history. Chopra was particularly impressed by how Marsh handled fellow Australian star Josh Hazlewood, using his height and strength to dominate the world-class fast bowler.

"The way he took down Hazlewood was brilliant," Chopra noted, explaining that Marsh's ability to hit straight over the bowler's head makes him nearly impossible to bowl to.

He added that if bowlers try to shorten their length, Marsh is equally dangerous with his square cuts and pulls.

While Marsh celebrated his success, the match raised serious questions about Hazlewood's current form. The pace spearhead struggled for the second game in a row, conceding 49 runs. This follows a previous outing where he leaked 56 runs without taking a wicket. Chopra pointed out a worrying trend for the Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), suggesting that when their lead bowler fails to contain runs, the team's chances of winning take a massive hit, leading to their second consecutive loss.



Patidar and Padikkal fight hard despite narrow loss

LUCKNOW

Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) director of cricket, Mo Bobat, has praised his team's fighting spirit following a heartbreaking nine-run defeat to the Lucknow Super Giants. Despite the loss, Bobat highlighted the "great character" shown by captain Rajat Patidar and batter Devdutt Padikkal during a high-stakes run chase at the Ekana Stadium.

Chasing a massive target of 213 in a rain-shortened 19-over match, RCB faced an early disaster. Both openers fell quickly, including star batter Virat Kohli, who was dismissed for a duck. However, Patidar and Padikkal stabilized the innings with a brave 95-run partnership. Patidar led from the front, smashing a brilliant 61 off just 31 balls, while Padikkal added a steady 34 to keep the dream alive.

"It is rare for our openers to fall so early," Bobat said, noting that the duo did an excellent job of absorbing pressure before attacking the bowlers. He credited them for shifting the momentum back in RCB's favor, which allowed power-hitter Tim David to nearly pull off a miracle with a late 40-run cameo.

Bobat also gave credit to Lucknow's bowlers, specifically Bhuvneshwar Kumar and Krunal Pandya, for their disciplined spells. While disappointed to miss out on the win, the RCB camp is already looking forward.

Pandya embraces pressure as champions defend title

NEW DELHI

Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) all-rounder Krunal Pandya has opened up about the intense weight of being defending champions, stating that pressure is a privilege that brings out his best. Speaking after a tough loss to Lucknow, Pandya emphasized that while expectations are high, success comes from staying calm and focusing on the basics of the game.

With a decade of experience, Pandya believes senior players must guide younger teammates through the mental challenges of the IPL. "Pressure is always there at the highest level," he noted, adding that he prepares himself specifically for these "tough situations" to ensure he can deliver when the team needs him most.

Pandya also discussed the evolving battle between bat and ball. He explained that as power-hitting reaches new heights, bowlers must innovate to survive. Surprisingly for a spinner, Pandya has integrated bouncers into his strategy. He revealed this wasn't an accidental change but a psychological tactic designed to keep batters off-balance. By thinking like a batter himself, he tries to stay one step ahead of his opponents.

The interview followed a nail-biting match where RCB fell just nine runs short against the Lucknow Super Giants. Despite the defeat and a rare duck for star teammate Virat Kohli, Pandya remains optimistic. For him, the path back to the top involves ignoring the noise and treating every high-stakes moment as just another game of cricket.

Pant's tactical genius sparks thrilling LSG victory

LUCKNOW

Rishabh Pant's bold captaincy decisions powered Lucknow Super Giants to a thrilling nine-run win over Royal Challengers Bengaluru.

Former India wicketkeeper Aditya Tare has lauded Rishabh Pant's "masterful" leadership following Lucknow Super Giants' (LSG) narrow nine-run victory against Royal Challengers Bengaluru. Despite facing immense pressure this season, Pant's tactical gambles and clever bowling rotations proved to be the difference-maker at the Ekana Stadium.

Defending a massive 213 in a rain-shortened match, Pant faced a major test when he reached the 12th over without having used a fifth bowler. Tare pointed out that Pant's decision to introduce Shahbaz Ahmed at that late stage was a stroke of genius, as the spinner rewarded his captain's faith by claiming two vital wickets.

The biggest talking point, however, was the final over. Pant handed the ball to Digvesh Singh Rathi, a move many considered suicidal given that Rathi had already leaked 41 runs in his previous overs.

Tare noted that Pant's ability to back a struggling player in a high-stakes moment showed true captaincy. Rathi repaid the trust, using his googly to stifle the chase and secure the win.

The match also featured a standout performance from young pacer Prince Yadav, who dismissed Virat Kohli with a spectacular delivery. It was a historic moment, marking Kohli's first dismissal in a 200-plus chase in nearly ten years. While the win was a major morale booster, LSG remains at the bottom of the points table. However, Tare believes that if Pant continues this proactive approach, the team's luck could soon change.
